HOCKEY WARRIORS FACE CARLETON RAVENS IN HOME OPENER

The Loyola Warriors will open their 1972-73 home schedule on Friday evening, October 27 at 8 P.M. against the Carleton University Ravens. The game will be played at the Loyola Athletic Complex, 7200 Sherbrooke Street West.

The Warriors, with Coach Paul Arsenault at the helm, are a young team, having lost much of last year's team to the professional ranks.

Combine Studies with Hockey:

TEN FORMER WARRIORS IN PRO RANKS

If last year's crop of Canadian college players is any indication, college hockey has finally been recognized as a training ground for future professional players.

The Loyola Warriors, perennial Quebec college champions, have contributed no less than ten players to professional hockey this year.

Heading the list is All-Star defenseman Larry Carriere. The 6'1", 190 lb. Carriere was the first collegian in North America drafted last year and has won a regular position with the Buffalo Sabres this season.

Centre Chris Hayes, last year's Rookie of the Year at Oklahoma City, is now toiling for the Boston Braves of the AHL.

Six other former Warriors are currently performing for teams in the World Hockey Association. Centre Gavin Kirk (1972 All-Canadian selection), winger Ron Riley, centre John Hutton and defenseman John Donnelly are all with the Ottawa Nationals, while net minder Rocky Martin is with the Quebec Nordiques and Nick Haramis is in the Philadelphia Blazer Organization.

That makes a total of ten players from the last three Warrior teams who have developed into professional prospects - certainly a record number for any college team in North America and even more than many tier one Junior A clubs.
